INTRODUCTION

Education alone today is never enough for us to survive in this fast-growing world as globalization has evolved our daily life. The ability to know what the market wants and how to sell one's talent while surviving the competition with others is the key factor to success. Undergraduates today have been labelled as uninspired and lack of authenticity, and this is why EDMAT is here to help the undergraduates.

EDMAT (Engineering Development, Motivation and Awareness Training) is an annual motivational program organized by The Engineering Society, University of Malaya since 1978. This training program aims to develop, motivate and create the awareness of the undergraduates, preparing the undergraduates for the world they are going to step into.

The main objective of EDMAT is to implant leadership characteristics in management as well as develop outstanding interpersonal skills among participants. This is a comprehensive program which covers all the aspects to accomplish both mental and physical development. It is to achieve a proper balance between academic and interpersonal development.

For the past 36 years, targeted EDMAT participants were engineering undergraduates from ASEAN universities besides local universities in Malaysia. This year, we would like to take a step further by also inviting participants from various fields of studies.

History

EDMAT is a camp that has trained, developed, motivated and created the awareness of the undergraduates from all over Malaysia and Asia Pacific region. EDMAT has first started in 1978 and has been organised every year. This year, it is the 37th year of EDMAT. With its focus in developing undergraduates, EDMAT has proven to be beneficial to many participants and the organising committee and achieved its goal. It also has gained the reputation to be known as one of the excellent programs in Engineering Faculty of University of Malaya.

OBJECTIVES

1. To foster better understanding in culture of students from various countries.
2. Inculcate leadership and management skills.
3. Develop interpersonal and communication skills.
4. Encourage undergraduates to think critically and rationally.
6. To foster deeper understanding and better relationship among the participants from various nations.
7. To create public awareness among participants so that they will play a vital role in society.

THEME

EDMAT-37 theme is “Vision into Reality”. We believe that every great endeavour starts with a vision. But the real challenge is turning them into reality, as only then do they mean something. This may seem like a difficult task, but EDMAT aims to provide participants with the tools and values to systematically and efficiently turn their ideas into action, and action into success. Through EDMAT, participants will discover their true potential while also gaining insight into the inner workings of professional life.

Participants' comments

Chua Inn Hua

"After I joined EDMAT-36, the most very lucky thing is I get to know a lot of new friends, and the second thing is I have learnt a lot of things like thinking skill, soft skill and a lot more. Even this is an engineering camp, but the focus is not only on the engineering things, it also includes a lot of other skills needed for future like financing, communication and so on. throughout the activities, I have polished my leadership, I learn to coordinate the members in a team, I realize that work cannot be done by own, but in a team we work together, the fruit of labor would be much more precious."

Aaron Mok Ji Yiong

"EDMAT-36 is a creatively designed camp targeted to help its participants to better themselves in different aspects. Participants are challenged to juggle teamwork communication, creative and innovative thinking and to have a critical and rational mindset. Participants are able to draw their potential to the fullest by experiencing varying activities ranging from seminars, team building, design presentation and etcetera."

Putri Fuu

"The thing I love the most from this training is that; I got the conclusion that engineering students all over the world are the same: insane but outstanding. We can have lots of laugh, fun conversation, kidding each other with no wall of different country and culture in front of us when we have spare time. But when we got into training session, we can do all the instruction professionally as an engineer-to-be."

Chew Mei Chee

EDMAT give me chance to communicate, play and learn together with Indonesian friends. Along the way of EDMAT, we communicate with English. We are exposed to very effective talks from good speakers. We also have a clear image of engineering road through activities organised and industrial visit. Overall, I gained many good advice that is very useful for my future career.

Zhabrinna Senoputri

"I gained a lot from EDMAT 35. The matters were delivered very well and I like the speakers overall. Some 'trademarks' of them, such as "stop bangauing!", story of pilot, etc; Still remains in my mind until now. The games and party are very nice. But for industrial visit, I hope it can be more attractive n all participants can go to the same places. Not separated (some in Panasonic n others in Indah Water). Besides, all things ran quite well n gave me deep impression. And the OCs are very friendly btw."

Yap Yi An

*EDMAT 35, perhaps the best professional camp I have ever joined. The committees are friendly, fun and always be ready to help us. The programs are very nicely organised! I learnt a lot from the talks, seminars and workshops. Talks from Rizal and IEM got me motivated and earned me confidence. I have a clearer picture of what I want to do in the future. The debate gave a chance for us to talk in front of the public to practice our thinking and speaking skills and confidence. I have had a nice experience with people all over from Malaysia and Indonesian friends! To sum up my words, EDMAT-35 is great!
